

Home Warranty of America Earns A+ Rating from the Better Business Bureau

BUFFALO GROVE, IL, February 2, 2010 – Home Warranty of America, one of the leading providers of home warranties in the United States has earned an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau (BBB), one of the most recognized symbols of trust for the consumer.

“While we’ve always been members of the Better Business Bureau and feel it is an outstanding accreditation organization, we just needed to complete a set of administrative tasks to achieve a grade with them, and we’re thrilled to be informed we received an A+. We pride ourselves on our combination of high-tech, yet friendly customer service capabilities, and work continuously to improve our interactions with our customers,” said Marc Roth, CEO and President of HWA.

According to the company, having excellent products and value coupled with outstanding customer service is still not the whole picture in today’s online world. Proving to consumers you’ll be there when they need you through a credible, third-party source is also critical.
